Belle Epoque 2012

A mild winter was followed by a cool, wet spring which resulted in the late blooming of the vines between 16th and 21st June 2012. The summer was hot and bathed in sunshine from mid-July all the way until the end of the harvest, favouring the maturity of the grapes.

The rain only returned at the end of the harvest period. These excellent conditions produced an ideal balance between sugar and acidity, resulting in a wine of exceptional harmony, with great energy, character and potential.

A pale, translucent gold, with radiant clarity and subtle glints of apple green.

Distinctive notes of white flowers combine with white peaches, crisp pears and lemon.
